CSCMP Publishes Online Executive Recruiter Directory Designed for Supply Chain Professionals

Lombard, Illinois USA (March 17, 2010)—The Council of Supply Chain Management Professionals (CSCMP) publishes its Executive Recruiter Directory, which is available to supply chain managers on its web site at cscmp.org on the “SCM Careers” tab.

The directory is comprised of global executive recruiting firms that specialize in customer service, inventory management, logistics, materials and information management, traffic and transportation, and warehousing. The guide assists companies looking to hire supply chain professionals as well as individuals seeking the services of executive placement firms.

“Recruiting firms are an invaluable support to the supply chain profession,” said Patricia O’Rourke, CSCMP Career Center coordinator, “and our online directory lists some of the best in the world. The dedicated recruiters at these firms search for the most exceptional professionals in the industry to manage successful global supply chain and logistics operations as well as provide outstanding service and support to candidates.”

Firms must meet certain criteria in order to be listed in CSCMP’s Executive Recruiter Directory or a $350.00 US fee is assessed. The criteria include actively recruiting for the supply chain discipline and, either belonging to CSCMP or using its Career Center services. Each listing runs for a six-month period.

CSCMP is currently gathering information for the summer edition of the 2010 Executive Recruiter Directory. Firms interested in being listed in the guide must complete the directory form located at <http://cscmp.org/career/executive/form.asp> and submit it by August 9, 2010.
