CSCMP Elects Officers, Appoints Chairs to 2010-2011 Board of Directors

Lombard, Illinois USA (September 28, 2010)—Members of the Council of Supply Chain Management Professionals (CSCMP) elected officers and appointed chairs to its 2010-2011 Board of Directors during the association's annual business meeting held today. The meeting was held in conjunction with CSCMP's 2010 Annual Global Conference in San Diego, California.

Keith Turner, vice president marketing and sales, Alcoa World Alumina, ALCOA, was elected to the office of Chair. At ALCOA, Turner is responsible for managing global commercial activities related to bauxite, smelter and non-metallurgical grade alumina, and aluminum powder. He is also responsible for bulk transportation as president of Alcoa Steamship. In his previous role with Alcoa, he was general manager alumina and bauxite sales for Alcoa World Alumina.

Robert B. Silverman, vice president, IT business systems for Tommy Hilfiger USA, Inc., was named to the office of Immediate Past Chair. Silverman oversees IT and supply chain-related projects, including enterprise resource planning (ERP) initiatives, distribution center operations improvement projects, as well as the launch of the company's global flagship retail store.

Nancy W. Nix, executive director, EMBA Program and professor of supply chain practice at the MJ Neeley School of Business at Texas Christian University (TCU), was elected to the office of Board Chair Elect. Nix provides leadership for TCU's Executive MBA program, teaches graduate-level courses in global supply chain management and supply chain strategy, and has led study-abroad experiences in China, India, and Argentina. She has served in multiple supply chain roles at DuPont and Reliance Industries Ltd. in Mumbai, India.

Rick J. Jackson, executive vice president, Limited Logistics Services, was elected to the office of Board Vice Chair. At Limited, he provides strategic direction and leadership for international and domestic logistics, transportation, distribution center operations, and supply chain technical services. Previously, Jackson served two years as chief operating officer of Victoria's Secret Direct and more than 18 years at Kraft/Nabisco in a variety of sales, manufacturing, and logistics positions. In addition, he spent four years in third party logistics as a vice president at Exel Logistics.

Heather L. Sheehan, corporate director—global logistics, Danaher Corporation, was elected to the office of Secretary and Treasurer. At Danaher, she has global responsibility for logistics procurement, strategy, and implementation across Danaher's 100-plus operating companies. Prior to joining Danaher in 2002, Sheehan worked for Honeywell in the positions of corporate director—global logistics, marketing leader, and polymer division logistics director. She has also held various marketing leadership positions with Overnite Transportation, Union Pacific Railroad, and NCR Corporation. Her career experience spans 20 years in the manufacturing and transportation industries.

Immediately after the election, CSCMP Chair Keith Turner announced the appointment of the remaining chairs that complete the 2010-2011 Board of Directors slate.
